Manage your carpool the easy way using ShareMyCar

ShareMyCar was developed for small groups who share a vehicle. The platform helps you easily track and settle accounts for shared use. It does not arrange vehicle rentals.

Share cars and settle costs the fair way

A private car sits unused most of the time. That's why more and more families, couples, friends, and neighbors are sharing a vehicle. This conserves resources and can significantly reduce ongoing costs.

But as soon as several people drive the same car, practical questions arise:

- Who drove it and when?
- How many kilometers were driven?
- Who filled up the tank or charged the vehicle?
- Which costs are shared?
- How do you create a fair settlement at the end of the month?

With clear organization, a shared car is easy to use.

Who is a shared car suitable for?

Vehicle sharing is particularly well-suited for people who don't need a car every day. Typical examples include:

- Couples and families with multiple drivers
- Neighbors or people living together
- Small clubs and interest groups
- Multigenerational households
- Housing cooperatives
- Small businesses with shared vehicles

It is important that everyone involved knows how trips and costs are documented.

Say goodbye to Excel, sticky notes and a flood of WhatsApps!

What you can do with ShareMyCar

- Manage vehicles and drivers
- Track trips and mileage
- Add forgotten trips
- Allocate expenses and receipts
- Automatically calculate travel expenses
- Generate monthly statements
- Use the app in German, French, or English
- Free for a shared vehicle and up to three drivers

ShareMyCar is your tool for organizing and tracking shared vehicles. Individual agreements, as well as insurance and tax matters, are the responsibility of the parties involved.

Here's how easy ShareMyCar works

- When you start your trip, select the vehicle and enter the current odometer reading.
- At the end of the trip, enter the final odometer reading.
- Afterward, you can add any costs and receipts
- If a trip was forgotten, it can also be added later with the actual start and end dates.
- The trip overview is accessible at any time.

ShareMyCar
THE EASY WAY.

According to the KISS principle: Keep it Smart and Simple, Stupid!

What should be arranged before the first trip?

Before multiple people use a vehicle, a few basic points should be agreed upon together:

Use and Availability

- Who is allowed to drive the vehicle?
- How do you coordinate when the car is available?
- Where are the keys and vehicle documents kept?

Price per kilometer/mile

A price per kilometer/mile can help distribute the ongoing vehicle costs fairly based on the distances driven. It should be clearly defined which costs are included in this price.

Fuel and charging costs

It should be agreed upon whether fuel and charging costs are deducted from the fare, reimbursed separately, or shared.

Other Expenses

Parking fees, car washes, repairs, or accessories can also be documented. A distinction can be made between which expenses are shared and which the driver bears personally.

Insurance and Liability

Before sharing a vehicle, it is essential to clarify whether all drivers are adequately insured. The procedure for handling damage, fines, or breakdowns should also be agreed upon in writing.

Divide shared vehicle costs fairly

The ShareMyCar billing system provides a clear breakdown.

- kilometers/miles driven per person
- calculated trip costs
- eligible expenses
- costs covered by the user
- Total amount for the selected month

This way, everyone involved can see how the bill is broken down.

Why a simple mileage log often isn't enough

At first, a note in the vehicle or a shared spreadsheet is often enough. Over time, however, it becomes more difficult to keep all entries complete and traceable.

Common problems include:

- Trips are forgotten or entered late.
- Mileage readings don't match.
- Gas receipts get lost.
- Expenses are assigned to the wrong months.
- The monthly statement must be prepared by hand.
- Multiple versions of the same spreadsheet are in circulation (the classic....).

ShareMyCar ensures that everyone involved is working with the same up-to-date data.
